Rifle Glossary

Air rifle – A gun that uses a .177 caliber lead pellet propelled by compressed air instead of a gunpowder charge. The rifles can weigh up to 12.12 pounds.

Bull – Short for bull's-eye. There are 12 bulls per target, 10 for competition and two for sighting shots. The 10 ring is actually a dot in the center of the bull's-eye. In smallbore, the 10 dot is slightly larger than a pin head, but must be completely gone to score 10 points. In air rifle the 10 dot is slightly larger than the period at the end of this sentence.

Cleaned – A perfect target, in which the shooter hits a 10 on each of the 10 targets on the sheet for a score of 100. Can also be used to refer to a perfect match.

Front sight – The sight attached to the end of the barrel of the rifle, holding the front aperture.

Full course – In smallbore, a full course consists of 120 record shots, 40 in each position, fired in the following order: prone, standing, kneeling.

Half course – In smallbore, a half course consists of 60 shots, 20 in each position (prone, standing and kneeling).

Electronic Targets – A target system that uses microphones and sound waves from the bullet or pellet going through the paper to send to a monitor on each point.

Iron sights – Sights that employ no magnification.

Kneeling – Shooting from a kneeling position with a sling and kneeling roll to support the position.

Off hand – The unsupported standing position.

Perfect match score – In air rifle and smallbore, 600 is perfect.

Plug – A metal device used to score targets. Variations include the "inward plug" and "outward plug." With the inward plug, the score is determined by the contact point of the outside edge of the plug with the inside of the next highest scoring ring. With an outward plug, the score is determined by the contact point of the outer edge of the plug with the inside of the next lowest scoring ring.

Prone – Shooting from a lying position.

Range Officer – The person in charge of timing the match and "running the line," which includes assisting shooters who are having difficulties and enforcing rules governing the match.

Record shots – Also known as "shots for record," those shots that are counted toward the match score, with "sighters" not included.

Relay – One group of shooters firing the match at the same time.

Shooting glove – A padded glove, with or without fingers, used to ensure the comfort of the non-dominant hand (i.e., a right-handed shooter wears a glove on the left hand) as the shooter supports the rifle.

Shooting jacket – The jacket is made of leather or canvas and provides support and pads the shooter to minimize the effect of pulse and recoil. There are strict guidelines regarding the thickness.

Shooting boots – Boots designed for rifle shooting. They have the toe end of the sole and the heel cut flat for stability.

Shooting trousers – Snug canvas and/or leather pants usually worn over running tights or sweatpants. They often have padded reinforcements sewn on both knees and the seat to prevent the slipping of elbows and knees when firing from the kneeling position.

Sighting shots – Practice shots taken before going "for record." Sighting shots are unlimited and may be fired before the beginning of each position. Once a position's first record shot has been fired, no further sighting shots are permitted.

Sling – Adjustable strap with buckle adjustments and arm cuffs that provide stability. A sling is attached to the rifle and helps to support it in prone and kneeling positions.

Smallbore – A .22 caliber gun with an iron sight used in competition. It can be customized with special accessories and/or alterations (barrel length and style, stock, design, etc.) to fit the shooter's needs and comforts.

Spotting scope – A type of telescope used to locate shots in the target.

Tie Breaking – In NCAA competition, ties are broken as follows: 1) by the highest score in the last 10 shots; 2) by the highest number of 10s, 9s and 8s; or 3) by the highest number of inner 10s. When shooting other smallbore and air rifle competitions, ties are addressed by the rule book of either the National Rifle Association or USA Shooting.

Scoring System

Air Rifle

Course of Fire – Competitors stand and shoot lead pellets from .177 caliber rifles at targets 10 meters away.

Rifle – Air rifles can be either air or gas powered and weigh up to 12.12 pounds by NCAA regulations.

Time – Competitors have 105 minutes to fire 60 shots from the standing position.

Perfect Match Score – A perfect match score of 600 is the maximum for air rifle.

Actual size of an air rifle target

Smallbore

Course of Fire – In smallbore three-position rifle, athletes fire .22 caliber rifles from the prone, standing and kneeling (also called off hand) positions at targets 50 feet away.

Rifle – Smallbore rifles may not exceed 17.6 pounds by NCAA regulations.

Time – Competitors have 120 minutes for 20 record shots in the prone position, 20 record shots in the standing position and 20 record shots in the kneeling position.

Perfect Match Score – A perfect match score of 600 is the maximum for smallbore.

Actual size of a smallbore target

NU RIFLE RANGE

In April 2006, Nebraska became just the second university in the nation to add electronic targets to its rifle facilities. First seen only in international and Olympic competition, the electronic targets were added to the U.S. Air Force Academy's facilities before the Huskers adopted the new technology.

Electronic targeting enables shooters to aim at only one target instead of 10 different targets. The machine contains a roll of black paper, which refills the open target with a clean piece of paper after every shot. Four microphones in the electronic targets sense the precision of the shot, transmitting the information to an online computer monitor.

"We have strong facilities here at Nebraska," Head Coach Morgan Hicks said. "Not every range in the nation has the electronic target technology, so we are very fortunate that our athletes can call a first-class range home. At the NCAA Championships and in international competition, we shoot only on electronic targets. Especially for our shooters who are trying to make the national team or the Olympic team, it's huge to have the opportunity to train with the best technology. In any sport, you want to have every advantage possible in practice each day, and that is exactly what the Nebraska Rifle Range provides for our student-athletes."

Former Husker Kristina Fehlings demonstrates electronic target technology, which was installed at the NU Rifle Range in 2006.

The NU Rifle Range offers the best electronic targeting and state-of-the-art technology for Husker student-athletes to maximize their potential.

Huskers Aim for Another Impressive Season

The 2010-11 season is shaping up to be an impressive one for Head Coach Morgan Hicks and Nebraska Rifle. Hicks' fourth squad at NU returns four letterwinners and adds several talented newcomers to the roster. Coming off a sixth-place finish at the NCAA Championships in 2010, the Cornhuskers have their sights set on a return trip this season.

"I know the girls really want to push this year, and we would love to have a top-three finish at [the] NCAA Championships," Hicks said.

With five returners and three newcomers this season, teamwork will be a key component as the Huskers move forward.

"I love how this team is so selfless and wants each other to do so well," said Hicks. "They are not eight individuals shooting for themselves. Instead, this team is a strong team of eight great shooters looking to make the best for their teammates."

The team figures to be a very talented group in air rifle this year, returning three of the top four air rifle competitors from last season.

"We are going to be a really strong team in air rifle, and the girls want to win that division [at the NCAA Championships]," Hicks said.

With the loss of both of the Big Red's top smallbore shooters due to graduation, the smallbore field looks to be a tighter race this season. Several returners and newcomers will have the chance to step up and compete in the smallbore lineup.

NU is led by lone senior Ryann McGough, who returns from an excellent junior season that saw her succeed both on the range and in the classroom. McGough appeared in both smallbore and air rifle at all 15 competitions for Nebraska. She recorded her sixth individual title when she captured the air rifle title at Memphis in November. McGough was also honored for her academic endeavors throughout the season, as she was named to the Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll both semesters. Her leadership will be key to the team's success this season. On Ryann's role amongst her teammates, Hicks said, "Ryann's teammates trust her. [They] know she has been through three years of this already and wants to push this team and lead it to the top."

Juniors Katie Kostal and Sheena Mahloch bring added experience to Nebraska's lineup in 2010-11. Kostal, who performed in 14 competitions last season, had an especially strong start to the season when she captured both the individual air rifle title and overall title against NC State. Her smallbore average in 2009-10 was fourth on the team, and she will bring much-needed experience in the event to the table for the Huskers.

Ryann McGough will lead the charge for the Huskers this season.

"Katie is full of spirit," Hicks said. "I know that she will continue to push and work tirelessly until her goal is accomplished."

Mahloch has shown a marked improvement in her shooting while at NU, as she raised her freshman average in both disciplines by a combined total of 17 points last season. Her experience is also important to both the team and to herself as a shooter and will help her throughout the year.

"As a junior, she has experience and is past the point where the pressure will really get to her," Hicks said. "Now, she just needs to have confidence and go out there and do what she knows she is capable of."

The eight members of NU's rifle team are gearing up for a promising season.

Sophomore Janine Dutton returns after an exceptional freshman campaign that saw her lead the team in air rifle with an average score of 584.49. Her performances at the end of the season were especially strong, earning her first-team All-GARC honors and a spot on the CRCA All-Collegiate air rifle second team. If Dutton can carry her momentum from strong showings late in the 2009-10 season and throughout the summer into 2010-11, she will be a consistent leader for NU this season.

> I love how this team is so selfless and wants each other to do so well.
> Head Coach Morgan Hicks

"She had a tremendous summer traveling for the U.S. team and competing at World Championships," Hicks said. "I know she has some good experience under her belt now."

Sophomore Joyce Kim was a mainstay in NU's air rifle lineup last year and figures to be a top competitor in that position this year. In 15 appearances, Kim posted an average score of 581.20 in air rifle. She also made 14 smallbore appearances throughout the season. Her prowess helped her capture the air rifle individual title against Army in October 2009. With a solid year of experience, Kim will push to compete in both disciplines for the Huskers in 2010-11.

Janine Dutton is hoping for a strong sophomore campaign in 2010-11.

"I can always depend on her when I need it," Hicks said. "She has all the heart a coach could ask for."

Newcomers Katelyn Woltersdorf, ReAnn Wilson and Sunny Russell will all be competing for the chance to break into Nebraska's lineup this season.

"It will take a little bit for them to adjust to the pace of our sport in college as well as the high pressure in such a short amount of time," Hicks said. "It is pretty intense from the start, but I really feel the new ones will step up and adjust."

Woltersdorf, a transfer from Washington, was the top air rifle shooter in Washington in 2009 and brings solid experience in both guns.

"Katelyn is new to the team this year," Hicks said. "After two years at a community college back home in Washington State, she is ready to dive into two years of helping this team out."

Wilson, an excellent talent in air rifle, was the 2008 Montana State Champion in standard rifle.

"This first season will be a great one for ReAnn," Hicks said. "I expect her to jump right in and help out with scores for the team."

Russell will help advance the smallbore competition on the team, as she captured first in smallbore at the Texas State Junior Olympics in 2008.

"Sunny comes from a strong background in smallbore," Hicks said. "She adds so much to the personalities on the team and will contribute in many ways."

The Huskers should be familiar with their competition this season. They face an identical slate of opponents as 2009-10, with the addition of a match against Ole Miss midway through the season. Fans will have five chances to see the team compete at home this year, including the first match of 2010-11. The Huskers will open their season on Oct. 8 against Army at the NU Rifle Range.

Great America Rifle Conference

Nebraska joined the Great America Rifle Conference in 2004-05 after seven years as an independent program. The conference, which enters its 15th year of operation, includes Nebraska, Army, Kentucky, Memphis, Mississippi, West Virginia and North Carolina State.

Before joining the organization, the Huskers faced nearly a month-long break between qualifiers and the NCAA Championships. As a member of the GARC, Nebraska now has the opportunity to compete for the conference championship in the interim, allowing it to gauge its performance before heading to nationals. In the five seasons since joining the GARC, Nebraska has finished as high as a program-best second place at the ensuing NCAA Championships.

For more information visit the conference web site at GARCRifle.com.

2004 NCAA air rifle champion
Eight-time All-American, Murray State (2000-04)

Morgan Hicks enters her fourth season at Nebraska in 2010-11 and returns a solid nucleus from last season's NCAA Championships sixth-place team.

A 2008 ISSF World Cup rifle champion and 2004 U.S. Olympian as a competitor, Hicks has helped the Nebraska rifle program continue to be one of the strongest in the nation after taking over for former NU rifle coach Launi Meili. Hicks led her first NU squad to a fourth-place finish at the 2008 NCAA Championships before finishing ranked 10th in 2009, just missing the top-eight position needed to compete at the NCAA Championships.

Prior to her arrival at Nebraska, Hicks coached Murray State to a top-10 NCAA finish in 2007. She spent the 2006-07 season as Murray State's men's and women's head rifle coach. In her first year at the helm of her alma mater, she not only led the Racers to a second-place finish in the Ohio Valley Conference Championships, but also coached them to an eighth-place finish in their 26th NCAA Championships appearance.

Hicks became the Murray State head coach after serving two years as the volunteer assistant coach and graduate assistant. Prior to her Murray State coaching experience, Hicks was a coach for the civilian marksmanship program, which honed rifle competitors across the United States.

As a rifle competitor, Hicks was an eight-time All-American for Murray State from 2000 to 2004, where she was crowned the 2004 NCAA air rifle champion. Hicks also has vast international experience, as she traveled to World Cups in Milan, Italy (2004, 2006) and Munich, Germany (2006) and the World Championships in Zagreb, Croatia (2006).

She was a U.S. Olympic team member in 2004, when she earned a 12th-place finish at the 2004 Olympic games in Athens, Greece. Hicks also competed on the Junior Olympic team four times (1998-2001), earning the smallbore championship in 2001. In March 2008, Hicks captured gold at the ISSF World Cup 50M Three-Position Rifle competition.

Hicks graduated from Bethel High School in Spanaway, Wash., in 2000 before earning her bachelor's degree in physical education and health from Murray State in 2004. She then went on to receive her master's degree in secondary education at Murray State in 2006. In addition to being an NCAA-certified coach, Hicks is the secretary and treasurer of the Collegiate Rifle Coaches Association and the USA Shooting Board of Directors Athletic Rifle representative.

Get To Know Morgan Hicks

What is your coaching philosophy?

"It's more one-on-one and personal. This is a very individual sport, but it's important to realize how one score can affect other scores for the team. I encourage teamwork. A lot of times, coaches will tell a team 'shoot your 60 shots and tell me your score.' I want to know more about that score. I don't want to know just the end result; I want to know how they got there. That's the growth I want to see from each shooter. I also want them to enjoy their four years as collegiate shooters because they'll ultimately shoot better."

What qualities do you look for in a shooter when you're recruiting?

"When I'm recruiting, I look for someone who is a strong shooter and can handle shooting under pressure. If they're shooting U.S. matches, I look at their ranking. I want to build a strong team, so I'm looking for personalities that mesh well together. That makes a stronger team. It's difficult with our sport because we're so small, and I'm only able to sign two or three recruits each year. You have to be picky, and I know I want a talented shooter who fits in with the dynamics of Nebraska rifle."

What does your international success lend to your job as a coach?

"I think it's good that a lot of the recruits see what I've done. It shows that I have a lot of experience and knowledge. I think that helps because I can honestly say to a shooter, 'I've done this; I know what you're going through, and I know how things work.' I can show them what is most effective. The international experience also helps with knowing how to juggle everything. Just a few years ago, I was shooting internationally, I was going to college, I had a job and I was shooting for Murray State all at once. I know how to balance everything, and I think my team benefits from that. It shows them that it's possible to hold things together when, for example, I'm coaching full-time, shooting internationally and doing well."

What was it like to win an NCAA title your senior year?

"I didn't expect it, but I wanted it. That was one of my goals in college. The first was to earn a college scholarship for rifle, the second was to be an All-American and the third was to win a national title. Air rifle was my last shot that day, and I shot a 398. I was up against a lot of great shooters, but I knew I could contend for it."

Hall of Fame football coach Tom Osborne has continued to leave a lasting impression on the history of Nebraska Athletics since returning to lead the Husker program as the school's 13th athletic director on Oct. 16, 2007. Osborne, who led Nebraska to three national championships (1994, 1995, 1997) and 255 victories in his 25 years as the Huskers' head football coach, has continued to use his impressive leadership skills to guide the NU athletic department as a whole over the past three seasons.

With the core values of integrity, trust, respect, teamwork and loyalty serving as guiding principles for Nebraska's 23-sport program as a whole, the Huskers have enjoyed renewed success in Osborne's first three years as athletic director. In 2009-10, Nebraska finished 17th in the NACDA Directors' Cup final standings, the Huskers' best showing since 2000-01.

One of Osborne's first major decisions as athletic director was to hire Bo Pelini as the Huskers' football coach. Pelini, who had spent the 2003 campaign as NU's defensive coordinator, has energized Nebraska's storied tradition with back-to-back nine-win seasons and a pair of Big 12 North Division titles in his first two years. In 2009, Pelini notched 10 wins, including a dominant 33-0 win over Arizona in the Holiday Bowl while finishing in the top 15 in both major national polls.

The tradition-rich NU volleyball program has claimed a pair of Big 12 titles and advanced to three NCAA Elite Eight appearances, while the women's basketball program has earned two NCAA Tournament trips, while notching the best season in school history with a 2010 Big 12 title and a berth in the NCAA Sweet 16. The NU wrestling program shared the 2009 Big 12 title and finished in the top 16 at three straight NCAA Championships. The NU men's track and field team has captured a pair of Big 12 outdoor crowns, while the men's and women's teams have produced five top-20 finishes indoors and outdoors over the past three years.

The men's and women's gymnastics teams both produced top-10 NCAA finishes in 2010, while the Husker bowling team won the 2009 NCAA title and finished in the top eight at the NCAA Championships each of the past three years. The NU rifle team has produced a pair of top-six NCAA finishes in the last three years, while the men's and women's tennis teams both earned NCAA Tournament trips in 2010. The women won the first NCAA match in school history while the men made their first-ever tournament appearance. The Husker softball team has made back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances, while the baseball and women's golf teams both earned NCAA Regional bids in 2008.

In addition to their competitive success, the Huskers have continued to set high standards academically at both the conference and national levels. Nebraska led the Big 12 with eight CoSIDA Academic All-Americans in 2009-10, increasing NU's nation-leading total to 277 CoSIDA Academic All-Americans all-time, across all sports. The Huskers also led the Big 12 with a league-record 178 academic all-conference selections, along with a conference-record 687 Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll selections. NU graduated 121 student-athletes from August of 2009 through May of 2010, while increasing its Big 12-leading exhausted eligibility graduation rate to 94 percent.

The Huskers also have continued to set the standard on the national level in the area of life skills. In 2010-11, Nebraska will open its new Student Life Center, which is designed to help Husker student-athletes maximize their performance in the classroom and the community.

The Student Life Center is the first step in Osborne's aggressive building plan for Nebraska's athletic facilities. In the summer of 2010, the athletic department broke ground on the Hendricks Training Complex at the Bob Devaney Sports Center, which will directly benefit the men's and women's basketball and wrestling programs with new practice and team areas. The project is also expected to lead to additional opportunities for improved facilities for many other Husker Olympic sport programs. The Hendricks Training Complex is scheduled to open before the 2011-12 season.

In the spring of 2010, the city of Lincoln also received voter approval to begin construction on the 16,000-seat Haymarket Arena, which will serve as the new competitive home for both Nebraska men's and women's basketball programs beginning in 2013-14.

Not long after the historic vote in Lincoln, Osborne helped Chancellor Harvey Perlman announce an even more historic move with the shift by Nebraska from the Big 12 to the Big Ten Conference beginning in 2011-12.

Nebraska's move to the Big Ten is expected to add University-wide academic opportunities, while providing financial stability for the athletic department for years to come.

Before being asked by Chancellor Perlman to return to Nebraska as athletic director in 2007, Osborne served three terms in the U.S. House of Representatives (Nebraska's 3rd congressional district) from 2000 to 2006.

He returned to academia following a 2006 gubernatorial bid, serving as a senior lecturer at Nebraska in the College of Business Administration, teaching leadership and business ethics, in the fall of 2007. Osborne also worked as a consultant for local college athletic departments for two years.

Osborne and his wife, Nancy, continue to pour their time and support into the TeamMates mentoring program, which they founded in 1991. TeamMates provides encouragement to school-aged youth to help them graduate from high school and pursue a post-secondary education.

Osborne's leadership of the TeamMates program began while he was putting the final touches on one of the best coaching careers in college football history. The Hastings, Neb., native, who earned master's and doctoral degrees in educational psychology from the University of Nebraska, was named NU's 25th head coach following the 1972 season.

In 25 seasons with Osborne at the helm, the Huskers mounted a 255-49-3 record - the sixth-most wins in major college history. Osborne's .836 winning percentage ranked fifth all-time. His career came to a close with a 42-17 win over No. 3 Tennessee in the 1998 Orange Bowl, when he became the first coach in college football history to retire as a reigning national champion. Following his career, he became one of just four coaches in history to have the mandatory three-year waiting period waived for induction into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in December of 1998.

Osborne's 1994 and 1995 teams allowed Nebraska to become just the second school in history to post back-to-back perfect national championship seasons (Oklahoma 1955-56). Nebraska put together the best five-year run in college football history from 1993 to 1997, going 60-3 with five straight 11-win seasons.

Osborne led NU to 13 conference crowns, including six of his last seven seasons on the sideline. All 25 of his Husker teams won at least nine games and went to a bowl, while 15 won 10-or-more games.

In the classroom, the NU football program totaled 65 CoSIDA Academic All-America awards in Osborne's 25 years. In fact, he accumulated more football Academic All-Americans in his 25 years as coach than any other football program in the nation has produced in its history.

Prior to becoming head coach, Osborne spent five seasons under Devaney, helping the Huskers win back-to-back national championships in 1970 and 1971. In 1973, Osborne succeeded Devaney, who also served as Nebraska's Athletic Director from 1967 to 1993.

Osborne and his wife, Nancy, have three adult children, Mike, Ann and Suzanne and four grandchildren.

Huskers Accomplished Return to NCAAs in 2009-10

After an uncharacteristic absence from the NCAA Championships in 2008-09, the Nebraska rifle team set its goal to be a return to the NCAAs in 2009-10. The Huskers, led by experienced seniors Christine Costello and Amanda Jeffries and All-Collegiate freshman Janine Dutton, battled their way back to the NCAA Championships for the eighth time in school history and second time under third-year coach Morgan Hicks.

NU finished sixth at the NCAA Championships, but the experience gained for Dutton, Ryann McGough and Joyce Kim at the Championships will be valuable as Nebraska continues to build its rifle program into a national power.

The Huskers' return to the NCAAs started in October with a win over Air Force, 4,629-4,614. McGough led NU with a 586 in air rifle and Costello scored a 578 in smallbore, as Hicks got her first look at her two freshmen - Dutton and Kim - in live competition. Dutton responded with a 584 in air rifle, second-best in the NU lineup, while Kim scored 566 in smallbore as an individual.

NU then squared off against defending national champion West Virginia. The Huskers played up to the level of their competition, recording season-bests of 2,308 in smallbore and 4,634 overall, but still fell to the Mountaineers by 26 points. The Huskers' team score was a key in raising their NCAA Championships qualifying team average. Costello and Katie Kostal led NU with 580s in smallbore, while Dutton paced NU with a 585 in air rifle.

The Huskers used their early season confidence to reel off five straight wins in a six-match road stretch following the loss to West Virginia. Kostal kicked it off by capturing the overall combined title against NC State in West Point, N.Y., with a 1,156 total. A career-high 587 in air rifle highlighted the sophomore's performance. Dutton won the smallbore title with a 575.

Dutton wasn't the only freshman to post high scores early in her career. Kim led NU with a career-best 593 in air rifle in a road win over Army, 4,615-4,598. Her score not only won her the individual air rifle title, it matched the highest score by an NU shooter on the year, as Dutton matched it twice near the end of the season.

Costello then led NU to its third straight win with the overall combined title in a 4,608-4,582 triumph at Mississippi. Costello's 578 in smallbore and 584 in air rifle won her both event titles. The next day NU improved to 5-1 with a 4,616-4,574 victory over Memphis in Oxford, Miss., thanks to Costello's second straight overall combined title and smallbore title. McGough captured the air rifle title with a 586, becoming the fifth different Husker in six matches to earn an individual title. NU scored a season-best 2,337 in air rifle to clinch the victory.

The Huskers continued their string of six straight road matches by defeating UTEP 4,589-4,563, in El Paso, Texas. The Big Red got solid performances from McGough in smallbore (569) and Dutton in air rifle (587) to win the match, although the team total was the lowest posted by the Huskers on the year.

Clockwise from far left: Ryann McGough, Sheena Mahloch, Janine Dutton, Ashley Lane, Joyce Kim, Amanda Jeffries, Christine Costello, Katie Kostal.

A week later, the Huskers made the trip to the site of the 2010 NCAA Championships to face TCU and get familiar with the range. NU dropped the match, 4,651-4,615 to the eventual national champion Horned Frogs, but Costello recorded a season-high 581 in smallbore and McGough posted a season-best 587 in air rifle to gain experience and confidence that would benefit them later in the season.

The Huskers closed the first semester with a 4,680-4,595 loss to perennial-power Alaska-Anchorage at the NU Rifle Range. Kostal and Costello led NU in smallbore and air rifle, respectively, but both were competing as individuals.

The Huskers' second semester portion of their schedule featured matches against four of the eight NCAA qualifying teams - Murray State, TCU, Kentucky and West Virginia. NU dropped all four, but averaged 4,608 in the process, including a key 4,612 at the NCAA Qualifier at West Virginia that boosted their final point total into the top eight nationally.

Jeffries came out of the gate after semester break to lead NU. She recorded a season-best 576 in smallbore against Murray State, then won the individual air rifle title against TCU with a season-high 588.

Costello and Dutton then captured titles in smallbore and air rifle, respectively, against Kentucky, but the Wildcats' depth was too much in the Huskers' 4,616-4,604 loss. Unfortunately for the Big Red, Dutton's score was as an individual, but her performance would set the tone for the GARC Championships and NCAA Championships, where the freshman shined.

First, the senior/freshman combo teamed up again at the NCAA Qualifier to increase NU's chances of an NCAA Championships bid. Costello and Jeffries scored team-bests of 573 in smallbore, while Dutton scored a career-high 593 in air rifle to lead the Huskers to their 4,612 score, two points higher than their season average. Sophomore Sheena Mahloch recorded career-bests of 583 in air rifle and 562 in smallbore as an individual.

At the GARC Championships, the Huskers finished third in the seven-team field with another 4,612 performance. Dutton led NU in both smallbore (579) and air rifle (593), on her way to earning first-team All-GARC honors, as well as first-team All-GARC air rifle and smallbore honors. Costello scored a 585 in air rifle to earn honorable-mention All-GARC in that discipline for the second straight year.

The Huskers reached their goal of getting back to the NCAA Championships, earning a spot in the eight-team finals for the eighth time in school history. Led again by Dutton in smallbore (578) and air rifle (590), the Huskers posted a sixth-place finish, edging out Murray State and Navy. TCU used its home-range advantage to capture the team title.

Dutton's 590 qualified her for a spot in the air rifle finals, where she finished sixth overall. Her performance earned her second-team CRCA All-

Collegiate honors in air rifle. Costello closed her career with a tie for 21st in smallbore at 574, while McGough recorded a 572 and Jeffries a 571. McGough and Kim added 581 in air rifle, while Jeffries scored a 572. Costello and Jeffries capped their illustrious careers in first and second on the team, respectively, in combined season average.

After the tournament, McGough was awarded the prestigious Elite 88 Award, which is awarded annually to the top student-athlete with the highest cumulative grade-point average competing at an NCAA Championships event.

"I was very pleased with how we finished as a team," said Head Coach Morgan Hicks. "At NCAA Championships I had two girls with walking pneumonia--to see them fight through that and still shoot what I had asked of them was amazing. It really inspired the rest of the team to never give up and shoot to their potential."

Janine Dutton earned CRCA All-Collegiate second-team honors at the 2010 NCAA Championships.

Ryann McGough won the prestigious Elite 88 Award, given annually to the student-athlete competing at the NCAA Championships with the highest grade-point average.

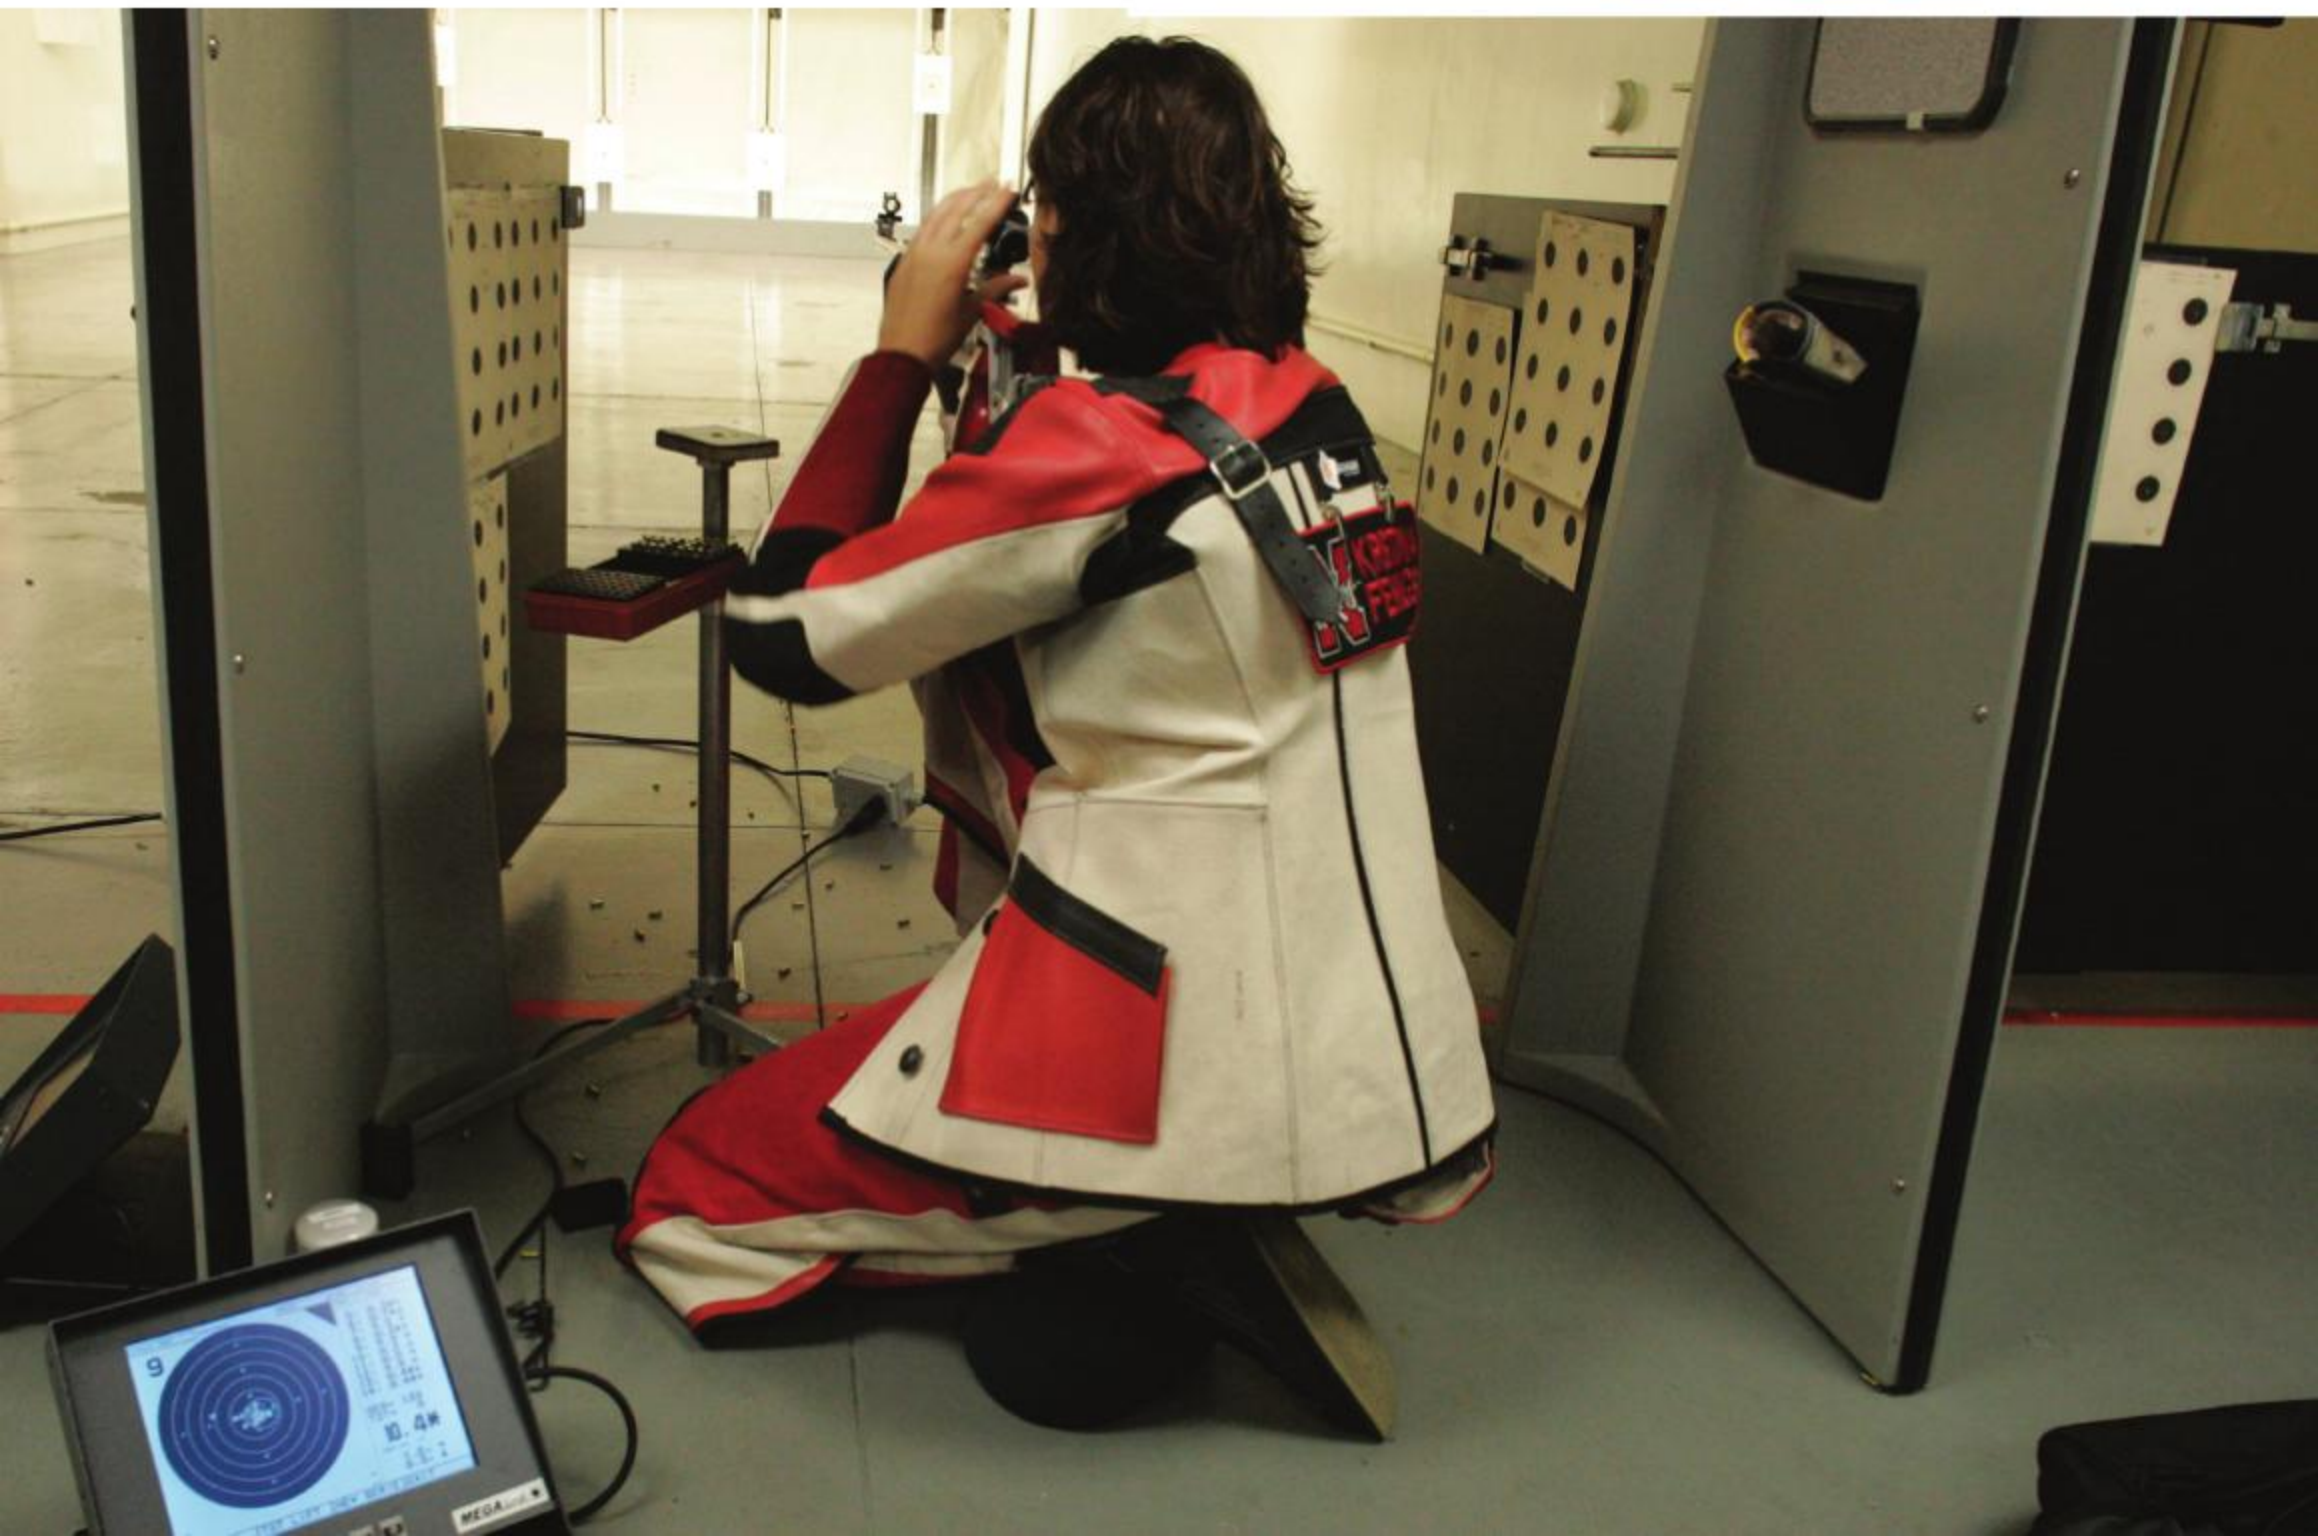
THIS IS NEBRASKA

The Nebraska Rifle Range is located in the lower level of the Military and Naval Sciences building. One of the finest training facilities in the nation, the Nebraska Rifle Range features 10 firing points with caswell shooting stalls and electronic targets.

Moveable target carriers, which are controlled at the firing line, allow targets to be placed at any distance up to a maximum firing distance of 50 feet. Permanent stops for the targets are located at 10 meters and at 50 feet for NCAA air rifle and smallbore competition.

The Husker rifle team is also able to utilize some of the finest all-sport facilities in the nation at Nebraska, including the Charles and Romona Myers Performance Center. The Myers Performance Center includes massive athletic training facilities for NU student-athletes to maximize their potential.



HOME OF CHAMPIONS

Nebraska's nationally renowned athletic programs enjoy some of the finest home facilities in the country. Nebraska is dedicated to providing its athletes top-notch game-day and practice atmospheres in every sport. Nebraska annually hosts several Big 12 and NCAA Championship events, including soccer, volleyball, baseball, track and field, softball, golf, gymnastics, wrestling and swimming and diving.

Top: The Osborne Athletic Complex provides Nebraska student-athletes with the nation's best training facilities.

Middle: Nebraska's teams compete in some of the nation's finest facilities in front of large crowds, including the NU Coliseum (left), home of the three-time national champion volleyball team; the Bob Devaney Sports Center (middle), home of NU men's and women's basketball; and Hawks Field (right), home of the perennial power Husker baseball team.

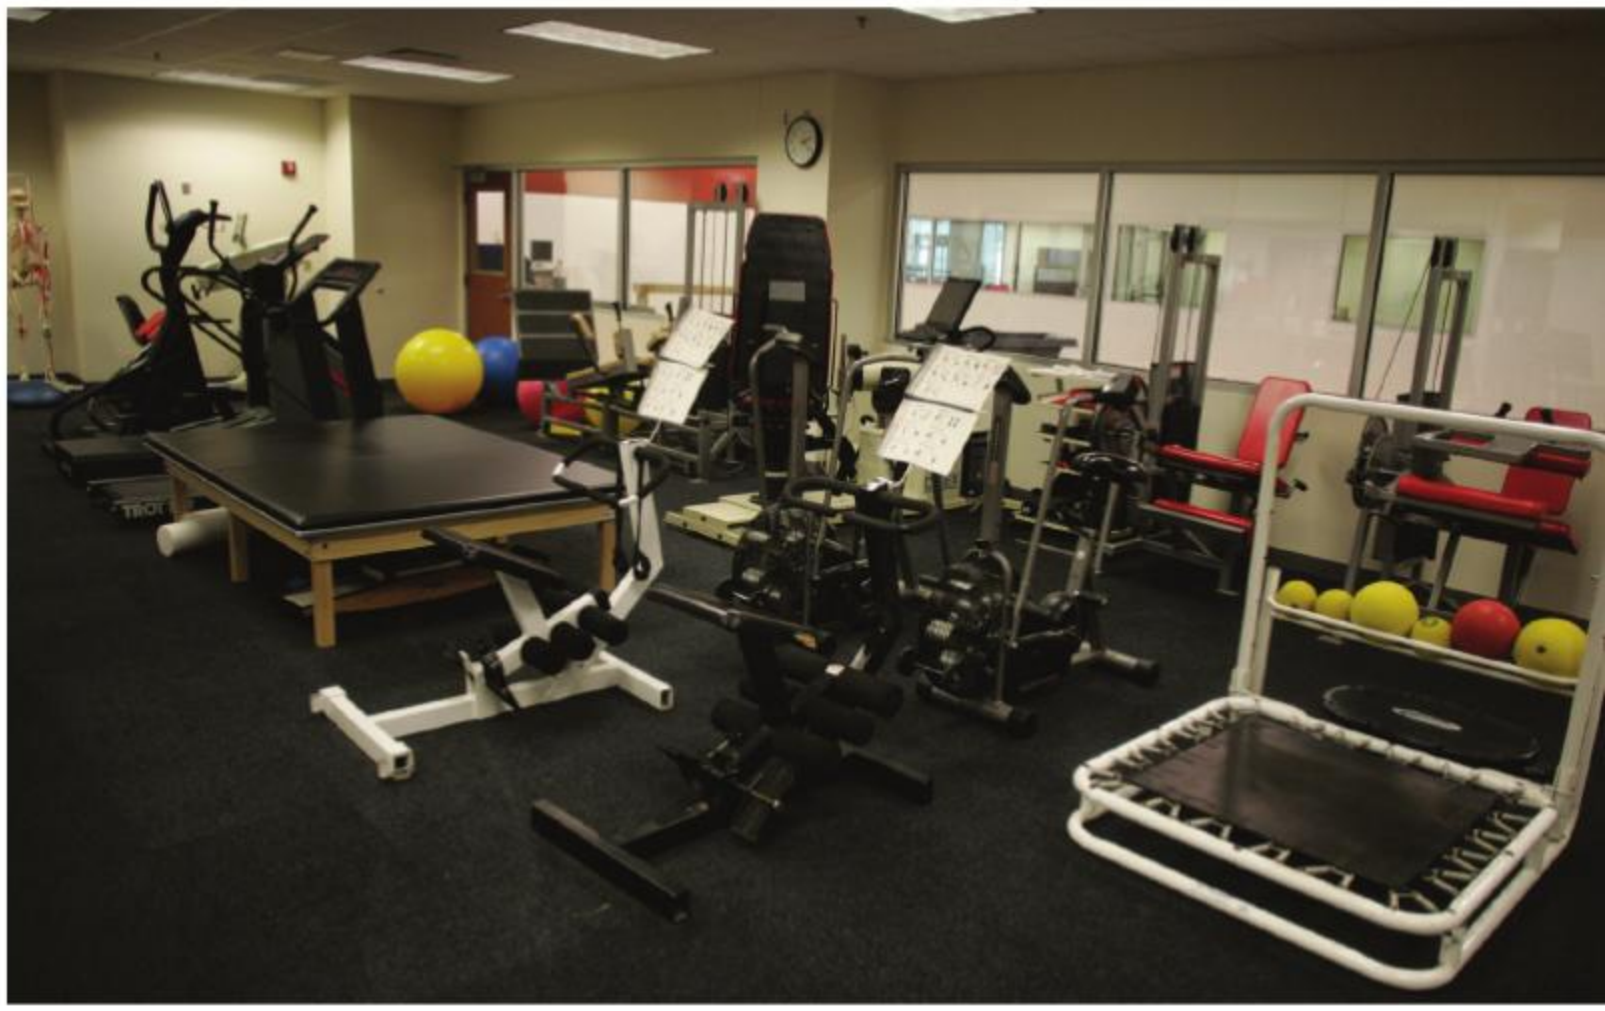
Left: Memorial Stadium has been packed for more than 300 consecutive home games - a continuing NCAA record. Approximately 85,000 fill Memorial Stadium each game, with an electric game-day atmosphere that includes giant HuskerVision replay boards and ribbon boards spanning the east and west balconies.

Providing expert care to more than 550 Husker student-athletes, Nebraska features one of the most well-trained and highly skilled athletic medicine staffs in the country.

Under the guidance of Director of Athletic Medicine Dr. Lonnie Albers, Head Athletic Trainer and Physical Therapist Jerry Weber, the 2010-11 Nebraska athletic medicine staff consists of five doctors, two therapist/athletic trainers, five athletic trainers and seven graduate assistant athletic trainers.

Nebraska's team of orthopaedists is led by Chief of Staff Dr. Pat Clare, a nationally respected orthopaedic surgeon with more than 30 years of service to Husker athletics.

The medical facilities at Nebraska have long been among the nation's best, and NU's athletic medicine center within the Tom and Nancy Osborne Athletic Complex will keep the Huskers on the front line of technology for decades to come.



The Athletic Medicine Center features a hydrotherapy area that includes a three-level laned pool, which allows student-athletes across all of Nebraska's sports to work out simultaneously. The Hydroworx 1000 Treadmill Pool is equipped with two cameras underwater for evaluation and assessment, while hot and cold plunge tanks are also available to the Huskers.

"The University of Nebraska's Athletic Department has an unprecedented history of supporting its student-athletes. Nebraska is committed to providing the best facilities, equipment and atmosphere."

James Dobson
Strength Coach

NUTRITION

Nebraska's Sports Nutritionists Josh Hingst and Lindsey Remmers work with all 23 of Nebraska's sports by educating athletes on topics such as increasing lean body mass, losing body fat, staying hydrated, nutritional strategies for competition, maximizing recovery following workouts and supplement use. Athletes are given individualized nutrition plans that can be applied in Nebraska's Performance Buffet at the Lewis Training Table, which is open each day for lunch and dinner and was expanded and remodeled for the 2010-11 season.

ACADEMIC SUCCESS

The success of Nebraska student-athletes reaches far beyond athletic competition. Husker student-athletes have been selected to a nation-leading 277 CoSIDA Academic All-America teams, as Nebraska continues to set the standard for the approximately 1,400 NCAA member institutions. The Husker football team leads all individual sport programs in the nation with 98 all-time CoSIDA Academic All-America awards. The NU volleyball progam has captured more academic All-America awards (37) than any other women's team in the nation, while the Husker softball program ranks second on that list with 27 selections. In addition to individual academic recognition, NU has led the Big 12 in graduation rates in 10 of the conference's first 14 years.

HUSKERS EXPAND ACADEMIC TRADITION IN 2009-10

Husker student-athletes produced another stellar year at the University of Nebraska, continuing NU's tradition of academic success. Nebraska increased its nation-leading total of CoSIDA Academic All-Americans across all sports to 277 with a Big 12-leading eight honorees in 2009-10, while also setting conference records with 178 academic All-Big 12 selections and 687 selections to the Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll during the year.

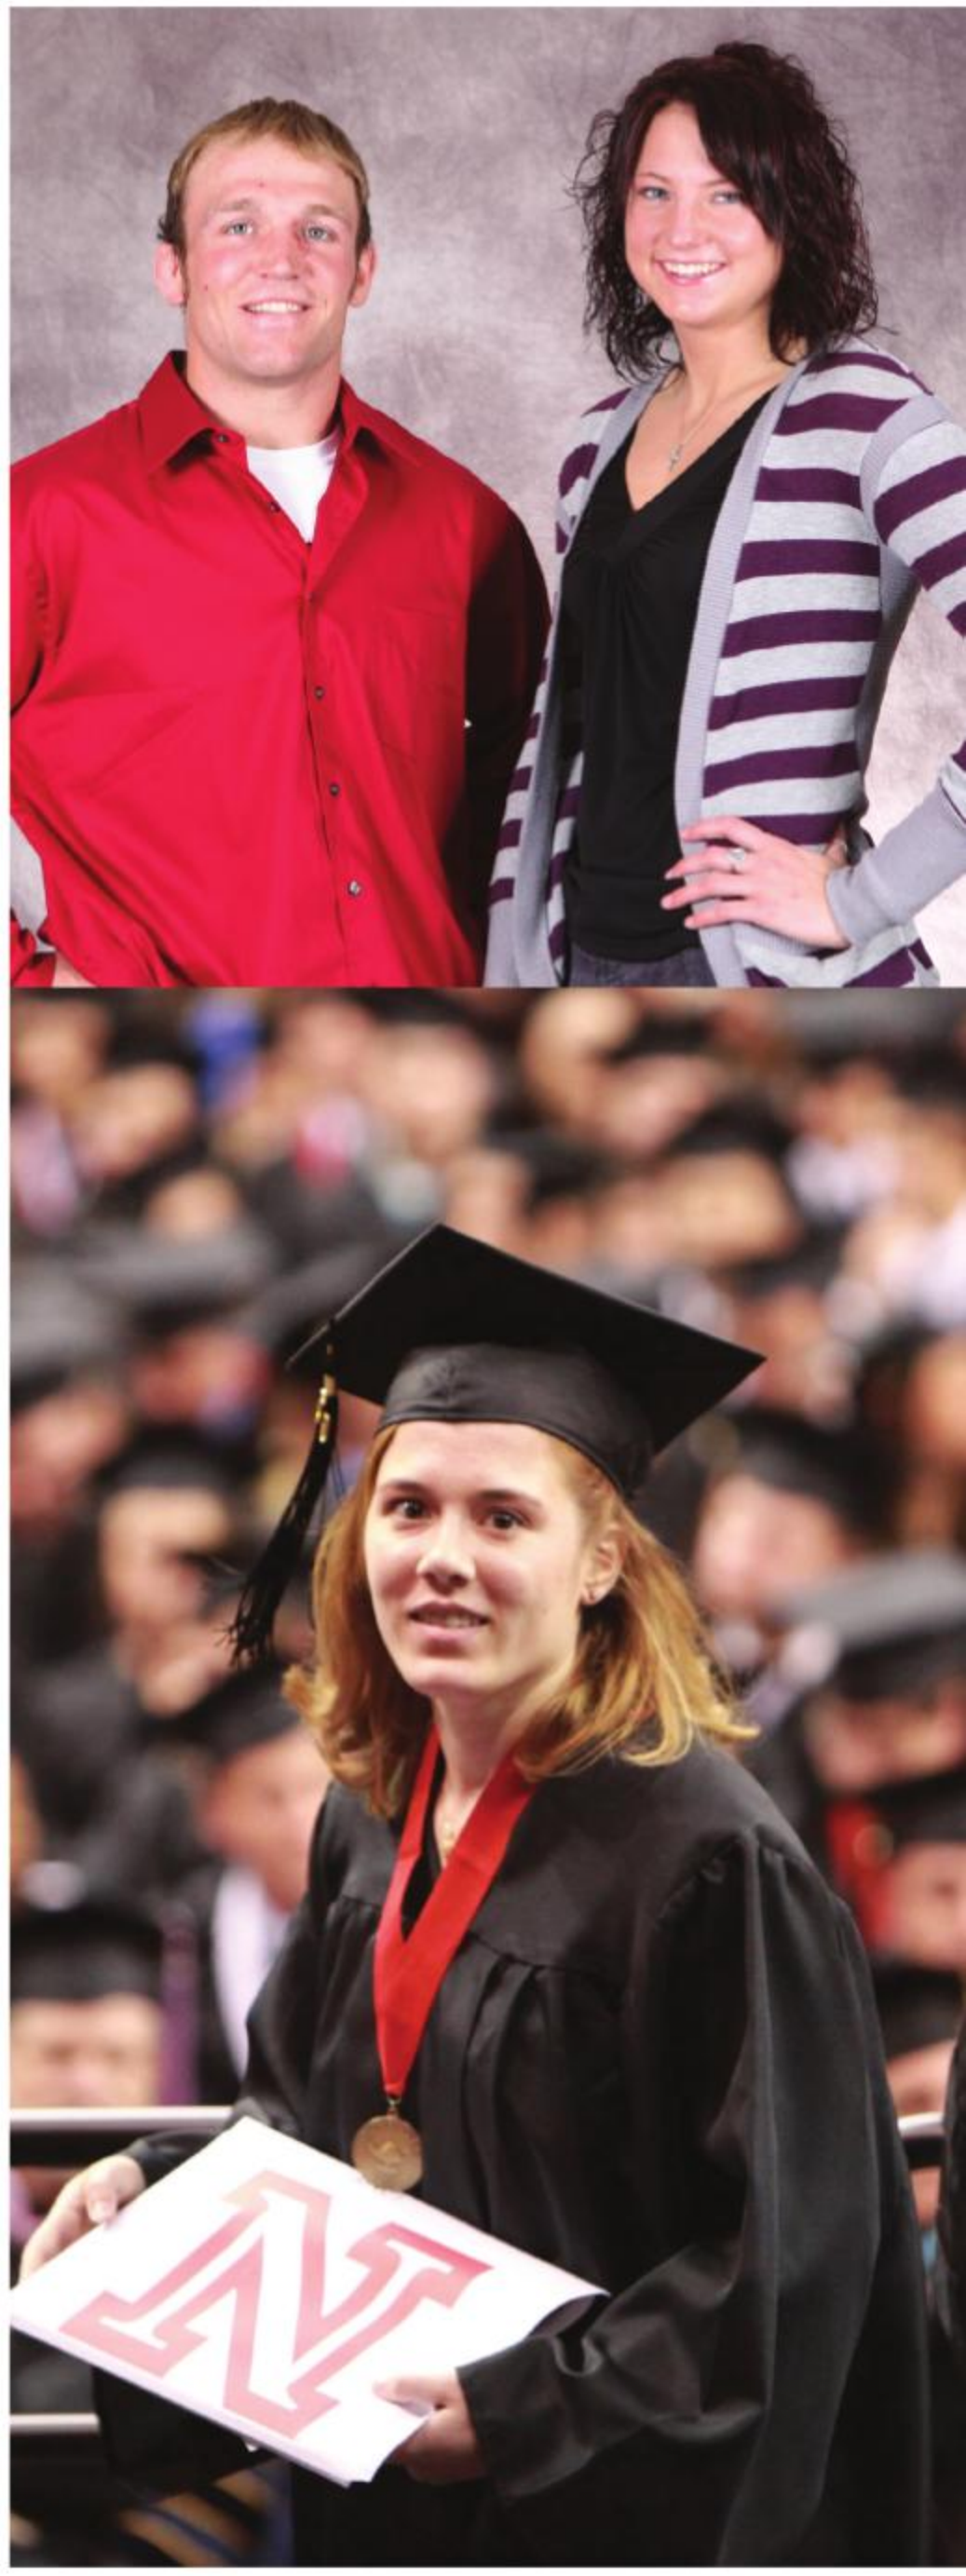
Nebraska Female Student-Athlete of the Year Kelsey Griffin, the first Husker in history to win the Lowe's Senior CLASS Award in any sport, capped a stellar career by earning a $7,500 Dr. Prentice Gautt Big 12 Postgraduate Scholarship. A unanimous first-team All-American and the 2010 Big 12 Player of the Year, Griffin powered the Nebraska women's basketball team to the Big 12 regular-season title, which included the only unbeaten regular season in conference history at 29-0. Craig Brester claimed NU's Male Student-Athlete-of-the-Year honor, while joining Griffin as a recipient of a Big 12 Postgraduate Scholarship. Brester, a three-time wrestling All-American, closed his career with a 109-21 record , including two NCAA runner-up finishes.

Husker volleyball star Kori Cooper, a two-time honorable-mention All-American on the court, became NU's 60th two-time academic All-American by earning first-team honors in 2009. Joining Cooper as a first-team CoSIDA Academic All-American in 2009-10 was Nebraska baseball centerfielder D.J. Belfonte and Nicholas Gordon, the 2009 NCAA indoor long jump champion and three-time All-American.

Across all sports, Nebraska student-athletes claimed a Big 12-leading 178 academic All-Big 12 selections, including an astounding 152 first-team academic All-Big 12 honorees. The Huskers had 24 more first-team selections than any other Big 12 school had selected to both the first and second teams. Over the past two years, Nebraska has claimed 350 academic All-Big 12 certificates across all sports, while no other Big 12 school has accumulated 250 honors. NU student-athletes also earned a record-setting 687 spots on the Big 12 Commissioner's Fall and Spring Academic Honor Rolls.

The hard work, dedication and commitment of Nebraska's student-athletes in the classroom resulted in 121 current or former student-athletes earning degrees from August of 2009 through May of 2010. The Huskers continued to set the graduation standard among Big 12 Conference schools by increasing their Exhausted Eligibility Graduation Rate to 94 percent.

Each spring Nebraska hosts an Academic Awards Banquet to honor student-athletes who have earned either a 3.0 or higher cumulative GPA or have earned a 3.0 or higher GPA in the previous calendar year. Last spring, 278 student-athletes were honored.



Top: 2009-10 Nebraska Student-Athletes-of-the-Year Craig Brester and Kelsey Griffin.

Bottom: Katie Harrington received her bachelor's degree from Nebraska in May 2009. The rifle program is one of six sports at Nebraska with a perfect 100 percent score in the NCAA's Graduation Success Report released in October of 2008.

ACADEMIC EXPERIENCE

From the day student-athletes decide the University of Nebraska is the right place to be, the athletic academic counseling unit provides personal and academic support to ensure that student-athletes will get the most out of their years as Huskers.

Featuring one of the most innovative and comprehensive academic support systems in the country, Nebraska is dedicated to helping its student-athletes become outstanding leaders in their chosen fields. The academic support team is comprised of 13 full-time staff members and a tutorial staff of approximately 70 tutors addressing all subject areas.

ACADEMIC COUNSELING

Eight academic counselors and three assistant academic counselors are in place to monitor daily academic progress, receive consistent course feedback, assist with the advising/registration process and monitor continuing eligibility and progress toward graduation. Essentially, academic counselors assist student-athletes in navigating the University of Nebraska system.

TUTORIAL SUPPORT

A tremendous resource for all academic abilities, unlimited tutorial support is available from day one up to college graduation. Subject and mentor tutors help provide academic support and study strategies to be successful. Supplemental Instruction, a sub-component of the tutorial program, provides targeted group review sessions to help ease the transition to college academics while improving study strategies and building academic self-esteem.

STUDY HALL

There are two facets to the study hall program at Nebraska. Student-athletes either attend a structured study hall, typically two hours in length held four days a week, or have flex time where they study a specific number of hours each week as determined by their academic counselor and/or coach. Weekly study hall reports are provided to the coaching staff.

MENTORING

Many student-athletes meet with a mentor on a weekly basis to assist in making a smooth transition from high school to college. Mentors collect syllabi, gather and report academic progress information and teach academic success strategies.

EDUCATIONAL ASSESSMENTS

Assessments are administered upon the request of the student-athlete, academic counselor, or coach to determine student strengths and areas for improvement. Results allow academic counselors to develop a personalized academic support program and to determine if more in-depth testing is warranted. When additional assessments are necessary, referrals are made to a consulting psychologist who conducts the assessments. If it is determined that a student-athlete has a learning disability, appropriate accommodations are made through the Office of Services for Students with Disabilities.

MULTI-CULTURAL PROGRAMS

Designed to enhance cultural awareness, staff members concentrate efforts on issues of transition, adjustment and retention for students of color, international students and women.

These support programs include Ladies First, International Night and Your Degree First. Your Degree First is a program designed to assist, motivate and promote minority student-athletes in pursuing the degree of their choice.

STUDENT-ATHLETE ORIENTATION

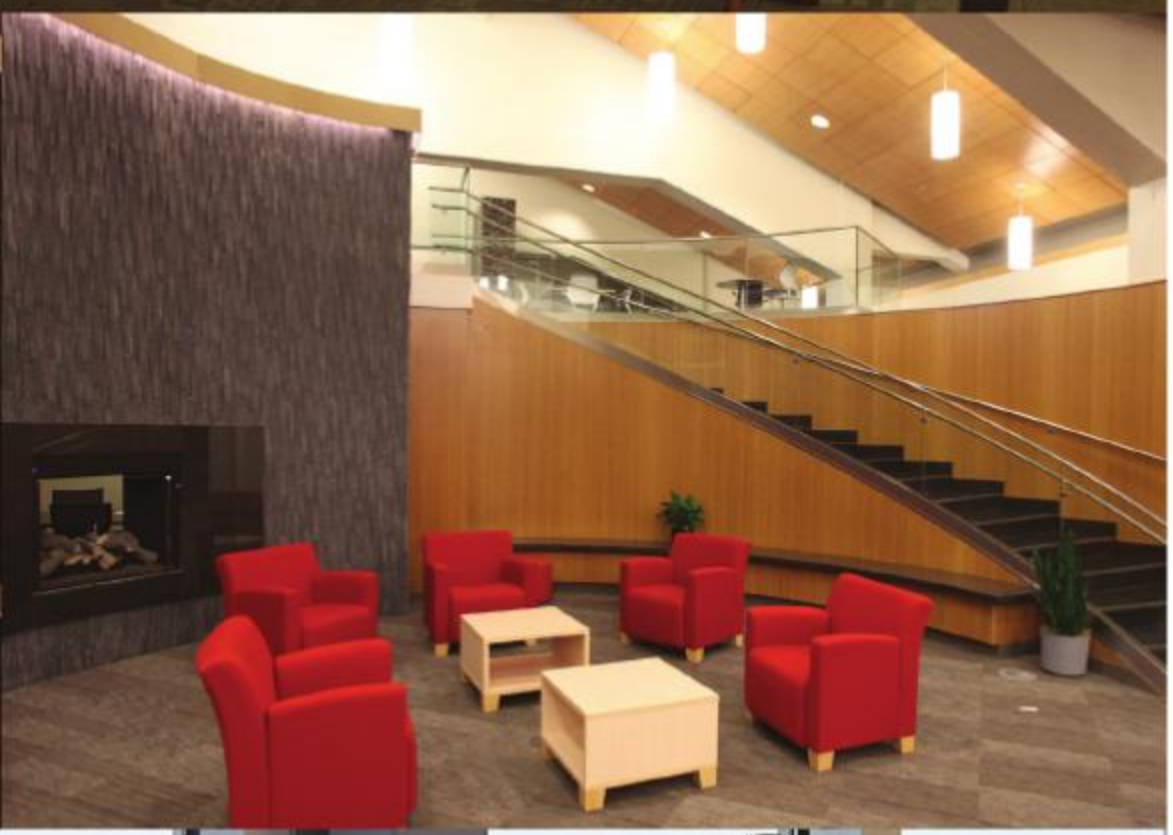
The academic staff coordinates New Student-Athlete Orientation to help newcomers adjust to the multiple demands of being a college student-athlete. Presentations are made by academic counselors, compliance officials, NU faculty and administrators, business/community professionals and student-athletes.

PERSONAL COUNSELING

Student-athletes will find a supportive and caring environment at Nebraska. Transitional issues, stress management, time management, academic focus and problem resolution are all addressed in a proactive manner throughout the year. If necessary, counseling referrals are also made to designated practitioners.

COMPUTER RESOURCES

Student-athletes enjoy a new state-of-the art computer lab and technology center with nearly 60 computers and professional supervision. Laptops are also available during team travel. Student-athletes have the benefit of ongoing education and assistance from a full-time computer technician.



LIFE SKILLS

The Nebraska Life Skills program provides education, resources and support through college and beyond to best prepae Husker student-athletes for life after sports. Services will foster transition, retention, responsible decision-making, leadership, volunteerism and career development.

Nebraska has long been considered a pioneer in life skills support and programming. In 1998, Nebraska was one of five Division I schools nationally to win the prestigious Program of Excellence Award recognizing a strong commitment to total person development. In 2005, Keith Zimmer, Associate A.D. for Life Skills, was the recipient of the Dr. Gene Hooks Award recognizing him as the top life skills administrator in the country.

LEADING THE WAY

As one of the nation's premier public institutions, the University of Nebraska is committed to undergraduate learning and world-class research. In early 2001, Nebraska was named to a national list of 16 schools that serve as a role model for other institutions by the Association of American Colleges and Universities. NATIONAL POWERS

One of the nation's premier athletic programs, Nebraska is dedicated to and successful in all 23 of its varsity sports. Nebraska has won a total of 24 team national championships since 1970, including a fifth bowling crown in 2008, eight men's gymnastics titles, five football championships, three volleyball titles and three women's track and field championships. In 2009-10, six Husker teams finished among the top 10 in their respective sports. The Huskers finished the year ranked 17th in the final NACDA Directors Cup all-sport standings, their highest overall finish since taking 13th in 2000-01.

NU had 15 teams advance to NCAA Tournament action in 2009-10, and the Husker football team won a 2009 Holiday Bowl crown. The bowling team produced an NCAA runner-up finish, while National Coach-of-the-Year Connie Yori's women's basketball team finished fourth - the best showing in school history. NU's tradition-rich volleyball program added a No. 5 final national ranking, while the rifle team finished sixth at the 2010 NCAA Championships. The Nebraska women's gymnastics team added a seventh-place NCAA finish, while men's gymnastics rounded out NU's six top-10 team finishes by placing ninth.

Individually, football All-American Ndamukong Suh, who became the first defensive player in history to earn Associated Press National Player-of-the-Year honors, captured the Outland Trophy and Lombardi Award while being named a Heisman Trophy finalist. He also became the first Husker to win both the Bronko Nagurski and Chuck Bednarik awards, before being selected with the No. 2 overall pick in the 2010 NFL Draft. All-American Kelsey Griffin also claimed national headlines while leading the women's basketball team to a record-setting season. The 6-2 forward was a finalist for every major national player-of-the-year award and became Nebraska's first-ever winner across all sports of the prestigious Lowe's Senior CLASS Award, recognizing her success in competition, in the classroom and in the community. The 2010 Big 12 Player of the Year was a unanimous first-team All-American and picked No. 3 overall in the 2010 WNBA Draft.

All-American Cassandra Leuthold also captured 2010 National Player-of-the-Year honors while leading the bowling team to an NCAA runner-up finish. Overall, 29 Nebraska student-athletes captured 33 All-America awards in their respective sports, including NCAA 197-pound runner-up Craig Brester, who helped the wrestling team to a 12th-place finish at the NCAA Championships.

A testament of NU's national recruiting power, the Huskers' 29 All-Americans in 2009-10 came to Nebraska from 13 states and three foreign countries. Among NU's 29 All-Americans in 2009-10, 20 were underclassmen who are expected to return in 2010-11.

Sophomore center Jorge Brian Diaz returns as the Huskers' leading rebounder and shot blocker and second-leading scorer for the 2010-11 season. Last year, Diaz set a Nebraska freshman record for blocked shots and also ranked among the top 10 freshman in NU history for scoring, rebounding and games started.
